For about a year he was engaged in practice with the firm of Voorhees, Carlton & Voorhees. He then went to Washington City. during the winters of 1875 and 1876 acted as eashier of the house of representatives. He left the capital in January, 1882, and on the 6th day of April of that year arrived at Colfax, where he at once established himself in law practice. On the 16th of Sep-tember following he was nominated by the Democrats to be prosecuting attorney of Whitman county, and in November was elected by a majority of 242 votes. Since then Mr. Voorhees has been continually in law practice in Colfax.

The Chinese a short time ago be gan to fortify a small island in the river at Foo-Chow. After awhile, when the work had made some progress, it suddenly occured to them that if the place was shelled by the French and became untenable, there would be no mean that if the place was shelled by the remarks of the progression of the pr French and became untenable, there would be no means of escape for the garrison. 'Suppose we makee lose, what side can go?' became the anxious query, and as affairs were looking very critical at the time, with the French men-of-war within gunshot, away scampered the braves and their officers from the island.
